Johnson County Democratic Convention

Delegate Selection Procedure

Introduction

At the precinct caucuses on February 5, 2018, delegates to the County Convention were elected in each precinct. At the County Convention, delegates will be elected to the 2nd District Convention (75 delegates are allotted to Johnson County in 2018). Delegates to the District Convention are automatically delegates to the State Convention. From the delegates or alternates selected to the District convention, committee members will be selected to serve on the District level committees (seventeen positions for each of the four committees: platform, arrangements, credentials, and rules and nominations, that are allotted to the county in 2018).

Article I. Registration

§ 1. The delegate must register upon arrival at the County Convention. Upon completion of registration the delegate will receive his or her delegate credentials and be designated as “seated.” In addition to the credentials, each seated delegate will receive:

- (a) an official series of ballots marked with the delegate number assigned to the delegate.
- (b) three (3) delegate selection ballots : ballot “A” for the First Ballot , ballot “B” for the Second Ballot, and ballot “C” for the Third Ballot. Each ballot shall be marked with the delegate number assigned to the delegate.

§ 2. At registration, the delegate must indicate if the delegate wishes to be considered for election as a delegate to the district and state conventions. The delegate must so indicate on the form supplied by the credentials committee.

§3. If a registered Democrat who is not a delegate to the County Convention wishes to be a delegate to the District and State Conventions, the individual must obtain, complete and sign a delegate nomination form from the Johnson County Democrats website. The form may be submitted to the credentials committee by any seated delegate, before the convention is called to order.

Article II. Selection of Delegates, Committee Members, Affirmative Action Chair

§ 1. The selection of delegates to the District and State Conventions cannot commence until after all of the following events have taken place:

- (a) the close of registration;
- (b) the adoption of the report of the Credentials Committee; and
- (c) the announcement, by the Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee, of the approved delegate-selection procedures.

§ 2. At an appropriate time, the Chair(s) will announce the start of the delegate selection and shall read the statement:

All caucuses, conventions, committees, and Democratic Party officials shall take such practical steps as may be within their legitimate power to assure that all caucuses, conventions, and committees shall include: men, women, various age groups, racial minority groups, economic groups, and representatives of identifiable geographically defined populations - all in reasonable relationship to the proportions in which the groups are found in the populations of the respective constituencies. In the spirit of the above, all caucuses, conventions, and committees will also endeavor to include citizens of all national origins, ethnic identities, religions, sexual orientations, gender identities, and disabilities.

§ 3. Delegates to the County convention may nominate themselves to be delegates to the District and State conventions by so indicating on registration card. If less than 75 nominees are nominated at registration, additional nominations from the convention floor may be solicited. Nomination of additional candidates may be made only after the provisions set out in subsection 1 of this article have been fulfilled and only at the time designated by the Chair(s).

§ 4. Upon close of nominations, the Rules and Nominations Committee will compile a list of those persons who have been self-nominated as District and State Convention delegates with their delegate numbers. The list of nominees shall be posted in at least four different sites of the Convention Hall. At this time, the Rules Committee Chair(s) will announce the posting of the nominees. In 2018, Johnson County is allotted 75 delegates to the District and State Convention. If the list of nominees contains 75 or fewer names then the convention may elect all nominees by a single majority vote. If the list contains more than 75 names, the first round of delegate selection will begin for a period not to exceed one (1) hour.

§ 5. If balloting is required for delegate selection, the first round of selection will be done using the ballot “A” delegate selection form supplied at the time of registration. No more than fifty percent (50%) plus one (1) of the delegates may be selected in the first round. In 2018, that means 38 delegates may be selected in the first round. On the first round each delegate must vote for at least 23 but not more than 38 of the nominees. Failure to do so will invalidate the entire ballot. Voting shall be by circling the delegate number of the selected delegate on the delegate selection ballot. A nominee must receive a minimum of three (3) votes to be selected. Delegates will be selected in the order of the number of votes received. Those delegates receiving the highest number of votes (but with a minimum of 3) will be selected until 38 delegates are chosen in the first round.

- a. "Bullet voting" is prohibited--i.e., a delegate must vote for a valid candidate on each and every ballot during a round of voting, or the delegate's entire set of ballots will be invalidated for that round;
- b. "Plunking" is prohibited--i.e., a delegate must vote for a different candidate on each and every ballot during a round of voting, or the delegate's entire set of ballots will be invalidated for that round.
- c. If, during a round, less than the allowed number of delegates are elected because of the operation of the above rules, during the following round the previously allowed delegates may be elected, in addition to the current percentage, so long as not other rules are violated.

§ 6. After each round of balloting, results shall be posted with vote counts.

§7. The Rules and Nominations Committee will compile a list of the nominees not elected on the first round. The new list of nominees will be posted in at least four different sites of the Convention Hall. At this time, the Rules Committee Chair(s) will announce the posting of the nominees, and voting will begin for a period not to exceed 30 minutes. The second round of selection will be done using the ballot “B” delegate selection form supplied at the time of registration. On the second round each delegate must vote for at least 23 but not more than 37 or the number of delegates needed to reach a total of 75 delegates. Nominees must receive 3 votes to be selected. Delegates will be selected in the order of the number of votes received. That is those delegates receiving the highest number of votes will be selected until the remaining delegates are chosen.

§ 8. A third round of voting will take place if, after selecting all delegates with highest vote totals in the second round, there remain two or more nominees, who reach the three vote threshold, receive the same number of votes in the second round, and there are too few openings remaining to select all of them. The third round of selection will be done using the ballot “C” delegate selection form supplied at the time of registration. The Rules and Nominations Committee will compile a list of the remaining eligible nominees. The list of nominees will be posted in at least four different sites of the Convention Hall. At this time, the Rules Committee Chair(s) will announce the posting of the nominees, and voting will begin for a period not to exceed 30 minutes. Delegates will be selected in the order of the number of votes received, but must still meet the three vote minimum.

§ 9. If two or more candidates reach the three vote threshold and receive the same number of votes in round three, the remaining openings will be filled by a game of chance selected and administered by the Chair(s) or the Chair(s)'s designee.

§ 10. In all rounds of balloting, ballots must be returned to members of the Rules Committee or the Sergeant(s)-at-Arms within the specified amount of time in order to be counted.

§ 11. In advance of the convention, the Rules and Nominations Committee will request nominations from each of the county convention committees for a slate of candidates to represent the County on the corresponding committees for the District Convention. During the convention, the Convention Chair(s) will call upon the Chair(s) of each County committee (or designee) to present the slate of nominees to the corresponding District convention committee. Additional nominations may be received from the floor. If the number of candidates is equal to, or less than, the number allotted for a District committee, the slate may be moved for adoption as a whole. If the number of candidates exceeds the number allotted for a District committee, then voting shall proceed as standing votes for each candidate, with the available slots filled by the candidates with the highest vote count. Committee member selection will proceed until all committee positions are filled (fourteen (14) positions for each of the four committees: platform, arrangements, credentials, and rules and nominations, that are allotted to the county in 2018) or the convention agrees to allow some positions to remain empty.

§12. Alternates for delegates and committee members may be nominated and elected by majority vote. Any number of alternates may be elected.

§13. The Convention will also elect an Affirmative Action Chair. Nominations and self-nominations for one (1) person to serve as the District Affirmative Action committee member. This person is also the chair of the County Affirmative Action Committee. When there are no further nominations, the Convention Chair shall, after giving any nominee the opportunity to decline their nomination, proceed with the election of the County Affirmative Action Chair by voice vote, show of hands, or a single ballot vote.

Article III. Ratification and Verification

§1 The entire Convention must ratify the election of the entire slate of delegates, alternates, and committee representatives. Ratification means only that it is the sense of the Convention that the procedures used in the elections were in accordance with the rules of the Convention and the procedures required by the Constitution of the Iowa Democratic Party. The standard rules concerning challenges and minority reports are applicable, with such being carried first to the District Affirmative Action Committee and then to the District Convention Credentials Committee.

§ 2. The Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee shall take possession of all ballots used during the Convention and preserve them for one year.

Article IV. Alignment Procedure for Preference Groups

Introduction.

If the County Convention as a whole passes a motion to divide into preference groups, which is determined by a vote of at least 15% of seated delegates, then the District and State delegate selection process shall proceed with alignment and delegate selection by preference group.

§ 1. First Alignment.

- (a). The First Alignment period cannot take place until after all of the following events have taken place:
 - (i) the close of registration;
 - (ii) the adoption of the report of the Credentials Committee;
 - (iii) the announcement, by the Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee, of the approved delegate-selection procedures (ie adoption of the Rules Committee Report).
- (b). In order to be considered aligned during the First Alignment period, a show of hands will be requested for each preference group. A delegate must indicate his or her preference. The selected preference group may be 'uncommitted'. A visual count will be taken for each preference group and each delegate will indicate on a railroad ballot their preference and those ballots will be picked up by members of the Rules and Nominations Committee.
- (c). To be viable, a preference group must have at least fifteen percent (15%) of the seated delegates.

§ 2. Second Alignment (if needed)

- (a). The Second Alignment period cannot take place until after all of the following events have taken place:
 - (i) the close of registration;
 - (ii) the adoption of the report of the Credentials Committee;
 - (iii) the announcement, by the Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee, of the approved delegate-selection procedures;
 - (iv) the announcement, by the Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee, the viability status of each preference group.

At the end of the Second Alignment period, a visual count will be taken for each preference group and each delegate will indicate on a railroad ballot their preference and those ballots will be picked up by members of the Rules and Nominations Committee to determine viability. To be viable, a preference group must have at least fifteen percent (15%) of the seated delegates. The Rules and Nominations Committee Chair(s) will then report to the Convention the viability status of each preference group.

If any non-viable preference group remains at the end of the Second Alignment, the Chair(s) will announce the start of a final, Third Alignment period, not to exceed one-half hour (30 minutes) during which the delegates in non-viable groups may realign. § 4. Delegate apportionment

- (a). At the end of the final alignment period, a visual count will be taken for each preference group and each delegate will indicate on a railroad ballot their preference and those ballots will be picked up by members of the Rules and Nominations Committee to determine viability. To be viable, a preference group must have at least fifteen percent (15%) of the seated delegates. The Rules and Nominations Committee Chair(s) will then report to the Convention the viability status of each preference group.

Article V. Election of Delegates with preference groups

§ 1 The Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee will announce the number of delegates to the District and State Conventions which each preference group is to elect. The number of delegates allocated to each preference group will be determined by multiplying the number of county convention delegates in each viable group by the total number of delegates to the district and state convention, and then dividing by the total number of seated county convention delegates. Where fractions exist, the group(s) with the largest remainder after subtraction of greatest integer will receive the delegate(s) in question. Where fractions are equal, delegates to district and state convention will go to the preference group(s) winning a game of chance conducted by the Chair(s) of the Rules and Nominations Committee.

§ 2. Each preference group will begin by electing a Chair(s). The first action of the group Chair(s) will be to read the following statement:

All caucuses, conventions, committees, and Democratic Party officials shall take such practical steps as may be within their legitimate power to assure that all caucuses, conventions, and committees shall include: men, women, various age groups, racial minority groups, economic groups, and representatives of identifiable geographically defined populations - all in reasonable relationship to the proportions in which the groups are found in the populations of the respective constituencies. In the spirit of the above, all caucuses, conventions, and committees will also endeavor to include citizens of all national origins, ethnic identities, religions, sexual orientations, gender identities, and disabilities.

§ 4. The chair of each preference group will open the floor to nominations for district- and state delegates. If the number of nominated delegates is equal to or less than the number of apportioned delegate seats (or a number of nominated individuals are willing to serve as alternates), a vote by acclamation to elect the entire slate of candidates is in order.

§ 5. If there are more candidates than available delegate seats, each preference group will elect its allocated delegates in no fewer than three rounds of balloting. The Rules and Nominations Committee representative in each preference group will announce the maximum number of delegates that may be elected from the preference group during each round. During the first round no more than fifty percent (50%) plus one of the allocated delegates may be elected; during the second round no more than thirty percent (30%) of the delegates may be elected; during the third and subsequent rounds the remaining delegates will be elected, subject to the restrictions enumerated in §6 below.

§ 6. The exact number of delegates elected during each round will be controlled by the following restrictions mandated by the rules of the Iowa Democratic Party:

- (a) No more than fifty percent (50%) plus one of the positions may be determined by the results of one round of balloting;
- (b) no delegate may be elected with less than three (3) votes;
- (c) all candidates receiving the same number of votes must, without violating any other rule, be either defeated as a group or else elected as a group;
- (d) "bullet voting" is prohibited--i.e., a delegate must vote for a valid candidate on each and every ballot during a round of voting, or the delegate's entire set of ballots will be invalidated for that round;
- (e) "plunking" is prohibited--i.e., a delegate must vote for a different candidate on each and every ballot during a round of voting, or the delegate's entire set of ballots will be invalidated for that round.
- (f) If, during a round, less than the allowed number of delegates are elected because of the operation of the above rules, during the following round the previously allowed delegates may be elected, in addition to the current percentage, so long as not other rules are violated.

§ 7. At the start of each round of balloting, the group Chair(s) will direct the delegates to circle the delegate numbers of the persons they wish to elect from the list of nominees for delegates to the District and State Conventions. The first round of balloting will use delegate selection ballot A. The second round of balloting will use delegate selection ballot B. The third round of balloting will use delegate selection ballot C. Any additional balloting required will use railroad ballots.

§ 8. Each delegate will submit a delegate selection ballot directly to a representative of the Rules and Nominations Committee for each round of balloting, who will collect and count the ballots. After each round, the Rules and Nominations Committee will report to each preference group the number and names of delegates elected on that round. If any positions remain to be filled, the preference group will then proceed with the next round of balloting.

§ 9. Balloting will continue until all positions are filled. If the last round of balloting would fill less than five (5) positions, the remaining delegates may be elected by division.

§ 10. If the number of nominees for District delegate positions is less than or equal to the number of positions allotted to the preference group, the nominees may be elected en mass by division.

§ 11. When election of delegates is completed, each preference group will proceed to elect its alternates. Any number of alternates may be elected.

§ 12. When election of alternates is completed, each preference group will return to the main convention area to elect representatives to District convention committees, as specified in Delegate Selection Procedure, Article II, § 11 and also elect the Affirmative Action Chair.

We recognize our rights, and our responsibilities, as citizens of our local communities, our state, our nation, and the world at large. We hold that every person is guaranteed the rights to life, liberty, equity, and the pursuit of happiness.

As Johnson County Democrats, we assert that, as citizens of Iowa and the United States, we are the government, and promise to uphold the protections granted to us by our state and national constitutions. We stand firmly against to any attempt to hinder those rights and liberties in the name of governmental overreach, greed or convenience.
